

core price list

21st century core technologies provides two related services: designs and services.

Customers can purchase the core design framework, and implement the technologies themselves.

core services provide customers with all the benefits of the designs in a "ready to go" package, including a core cloud server for collaboration.

Includes a comprehensive set of services that allow the customer to retain control of their information technology, manage their support services and ensure continuity. Customers choose a support service provider (internal or external) to provide front line technical support to their users.

For details of designs and services see the respective datasheets.

All designs and services include a subscription to core dimensions.

(core design improvements, modifications, enhancements, new services, innovations, opportunities, and news subscription)

exclusions

design frameworks exclude all services, technical support, equipment, 3rd party services and software licensing.

core services exclude all hardware and server application licensing.

core services fees exclude setup, migration, customisation, day-to-day technical support services, technical assistance, training, problem remediation, and user management services - these services are purchased by each customer directly from their chosen support service provider.

All designs and services are provided as is, and exclude any warranty, implied or otherwise, or liability for direct or indirect consequences of use and implementation. We use our best professional judgement to develop designs and services frameworks that represent the best practices for information technology use and deployment, however final responsibility for functionality and use rests with the customer alone.

Errors & omissions excepted. No refunds.
